

Aboriginal Culture

By Arlo

Food

Aboriginal people make spears out of wood to catch fish and turtles.

They also throw boomerangs to kill animals like kangaroo's and birds.

Aboriginal's pick food off trees as well and they also eat worms, snakes and spiders.

Aboriginal's live a healthy lifetime.

Shelter

They use soft leafs for there roof's and paper bark for there beds some Aboriginal's use dirt and wood for the walls.

Some Aboriginal's build there shelters in caves and use rocks for the walls.

Aboriginal's use lots of different lares like grass branches and leaves.

Music

Music is used throughout an Aboriginal's life to teach what must be known about their culture, about their places and about the world of nature. A

A didgeridoo is one of the oldest Aboriginal's instruments and they all painted different patterns or pictures on them. Most of their art tells songs or stories.

Art

Aboriginal art is one of the oldest surviving art forms that are still in museums and are also very rare. Paints were made from lots of different materials like ochre, stone and crushed up leaves also they did dot paintings and patterns. Aboriginals that lived in caves did the oldest paintings

Transport

Aboriginal's that lived near the coast cut hollow trees down and used the wood from the trees to make boats canoes or raft's.

Aboriginal's mainly walked as well, they walked to hunt but sailed out on a boat to go fishing.

Clothes

Aboriginal's killed kangaroo's and used there skin to wear around there waist they also used string to rap leaves around there waste as well.

Aboriginal's sometimes painted there self's with berry juice.

