

Noel Peason By Ben

Noel Peason is a proud First Nation Australian from the Bagaarmuga clan. He was born In Cooktail Queensland and is a proud indigenous lawyer who stands up for for indigenous rights. Noel Peason is also a well known representative of the traditional land owners. He completed all forms of educations significant as an aboriginal lawyer.

Noel Peason was born on the 25th of June in 1965 and grew up in Cooktail Queensland. He lived with his mum Ivy, His Dad Glenn and his brother Gergardt Peason. Peason grew up going to Hopevale primary school. He soon graduated from the University of Sydney with a degree in law and history which led him to his job.

Noel Peason started his career as a lawyer in Sydney Australia. Soon later in 1990 Peason co-founded Cape York Land Council of Australia. Shortly after he got married to his wife Tracy and his kids called Charlie and Melita. He was also one of the people in charge of indigenous rights which was one of his main achievements.

Noel Peason has made lots of different achievements. One of his first achievements in 1995 he acted as a representative of the traditional land owners. In 2000 he acted for a memorial for Ben Chifly. In 2004 he made his greatest achievement being the director of the Cape York Land Council. Peason has made many amazing achievements in his life that are very interesting.

Peason has made lots of amazing different achievements and he has lived a good life. He became the director of the cape York land council. He also was a representative of aboriginal people and he is a well known lawyer. Peason still has great achievements to make and the best is still to come.